

THE FIFTY CENTS FEST 2019 - Food Items and Pricing List

FEATURED ITEM	DESCRIPTION	PRICE
Kan Chia Mee (Rickshaw Noodle) 拉车面	The dish was named after rickshaw/trishaw drivers who were its usual customers who ate them throughout the day for fuel as they plied their routes pulling rickshaws. It was then the cheapest dish that the drivers could afford. Rickshaw noodles is a dish of stewed Hokkien yellow noodles in pork broth, with bits of minced meat and cai xin , topped with fried garlic and shallots.	$0.50
Kiam Png (Hokkien Style Cabbage Rice) 咸饭	Literally translating to “Salty Rice”, this comforting Hokkien rice dish is one that is common in every Hokkien household. This fuss-free one-pot dish is typically made with cabbage, Chinese dried mushrooms and accompanied with ingredients that can be found in the fridge.	$0.50
Lor Mee 卤面	Lor mee is a Chinese-inspired noodle dish served in a thick starchy gravy with thick flat yellow noodles. The dish was created by Hokkiens in Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia.	2 x $0.50
Ong Lai Sng Giu (Pineapple Ice Ball) 黄梨冰球	Hokkiens consider certain fruits auspicious. For example, they are fond of pineapple which sounds similar to “prosperity to come” (旺来) in the Hokkien dialect. The pineapple is often incorporated into snacks.	$0.50
Orh Pia (UFO) 蚝饼	One of the disappearing dishes in Singapore. A filling made of marinated minced pork, oyster, and Chinese parsley is topped with batter and some peanuts, then plunged into hot oil where it is fried to a beautiful bronze disc thus giving its name.	$0.50
Put Tiao Cheo (Buddha Jumps Over the Wall) 佛跳墙	Legend has it that after the dish was originally cooked, the aroma was so irresistible that a Buddhist monk forgot his vow of vegetarianism and leapt over a wall to have a taste.	6 x $0.50
Sng Bao (Traditional Ice Popsicle) 冰包	Sng Bao (ice popsicle in Hokkien) is a classic childhood thirst quencher for a 70s-90s kid growing up in Singapore.	$0.50
